An Effort Being Made to Have Virginia Represented.

VERY HANDSOME BUILDINGS.

The Machinery and Transportation Building Presents an Interesting Treatment of Cloister Work—Other Buildings.

An effort is being made to have the Legislature make an appropriation for the proper representation of Virginia at the Pan-American Exposition, which will be held at Buffalo, N. Y., during the summer months of the year 1901. Most, if not all of the States of the Union, will have an exhibit at the Exposition, and a splendid opportunity is offered to show the advantages of the Old Dominion, as a desirable place of abode by a display of her various products there.

The managers of the Exposition, besides liberal appropriations by the Federal Government and the Legislature of the State of New York, have the management of the recent exposition at Chicago, Omaha and Philadelphia and will profit by the experience of these.

The buildings are very handsome, and there is no doubt that the Exposition will attract large crowds and be a great success.

DISCUSS POLITICAL QUESTIONS

joyment that we have. What I mean to say is this: That whenever government comes into contact with the citizen, whenever the citizen touches the government, then all must stand equal before the law, and there must be no high, no low, no rich, no poor; that government must be administered according to the maxim of Jefferson: Equal rights to all and special privileges to none.

"I am going to ask the Republicans here to think for a little while when they go home of the income tax and see if it is not in line with that doctrine of equal rights to all and special privileges to none."

"When the Spanish war broke out we had to have more taxes, and the Republican party looked around for any old thing to put a stamp on, and you run across the stamp taxes all the time. Every time I send a telegram I have to pay the regular rate and in addition thereto one cent is added for the beneficial assimilation of the Filipinos."

POWER OF TELEGRAPH COMPANIES.
"Why is it that the man who sends the telegram has to pay the tax? Because the telegraph company says so, and why was the law so made that the telegraph company could shift the burden of the tax to the man who sends the telegram? Because the telegraph companies have more influence with the Republican party than all the poor Republicans who use the wires."

"In an hour of peril this Government can take the son from his mother, the husband from his wife, the father from his child and stand them up in front of an enemy's guns, but in an hour of danger this Government cannot lay its hands upon its accumulated wealth, and make that wealth bear its share of the expenses."

"Why is it? It is because the Republican party has made money more precious than blood. My friends you heard me denounce the income tax in 1888. I want to say that it is stronger today than it was then. And if those who have been shirking their taxes think that they have settled this question forever, I want to tell them that the income tax will be used to wipe out the debt of the United States until the constitution of the United States is so amended as to specifically authorize an income tax; that neither one judge nor nine judges can build a bulwark around the fortunes of the great and wealthy classes of Government on the poor."

MONEY QUESTION.
"But this is only one question. I am going to speak of another question which shows how the Republican party is looking after the interests of wealth and neglecting the welfare of the people. I am going to say a word about the money question. I know they say that the money question is a dead issue, but, my friends, silver has been buried so often that a little thing like a funeral does not bother us. I want to say to you, my friends, that with a handful of Boers will shake our financial system, where will the gold standard be if England ever attacks a nation of her size and gets into a real war?"

"When we join ourselves to the gold standard, when we make gold alone the legal tender for the payment of debts, we connect ourselves with every disturbance in Europe and make ourselves dependent upon their conditions and their prosperity."

"You tell me it is a sound system? It is false; that system is not sound. Tell me is an American system? It is a lie; there is no such American system that makes us tremble every time there is a trouble in the gold standard countries of the old world."

Continuing upon the currency question, Mr. Bryan declared that in 1896 all of the leading political parties demanded a double standard, differing only in the method of obtaining it. Now the Republican party insists upon a single standard, and a bill is pending in Congress which not only seeks that end, but also endeavors to perpetually force upon this country the policy of the gold standard system. If the Republicans had advocated such a measure in 1896, he declared, Mr. McKinley would never have been President.

THE TRUSTS.
After fully discussing the currency question, Mr. Bryan turned to the trusts, which he discussed at great length, insisting that the Republican party had no intention whatever of interfering with such corporations under any circumstances.

From the trusts he passed to a discussion of the standing army, and declared that the presence of 100,000 soldiers in this country, and the Philippines was but a step toward militarism.

He then discussed imperialism, arguing that there was a great difference between the peace and expansion of the United States, and the imperialism, he asserted, tended toward imperialism, although his friends and upholders endeavored to show that it was expansion.

He discussed the problem of the Philippines from the point of view of commerce, civilization and religion, and cited the results of English government in India to show that none of these would be accomplished in the Philippines.

"You cannot find an argument," said he, "for the permanent holding of the Philippine Islands that would not apply to Cuba."

DOCTRINES OF JEFFERSON.

"I want," said Mr. Bryan, in conclusion, "if I can, to help restore a government founded upon the Declaration of Independence and administered according to the principles of Jefferson; a government that will stand as it did in Jackson's day, between a bank aristocracy and the people. But my friends, I cannot tell you what fate has decreed. I cannot tell you whether it is to be our lot to triumph or to fail. I can only tell you that the great republic of history, is to distinguish its light and follow in the light of the monarchies of the old world; if, in the providence of God, the time has come when the pendulum should swing back toward the dark ages of the triumph of brute force, I pray to God that the Democratic party may go down to eternal death with the republic, rather than to live when its principles are gone."

Imperial Estimates Passed.
BERLIN, Jan. 20.—The Reichstag to-day passed the Imperial estimates after a debate, during which Prince Bismarck expressed the hope that Count von Buelow's statement, that he intended to follow in the footsteps of the first Prince Bismarck, would be fulfilled, though he added, these footsteps were obliterated and not easy to find.

MARRIAGES.

REPORT ON THE ROBERTS CASE

upon us, we recommend the adoption of the following resolution: "Resolved: That under the facts and circumstances of this case, Brigham H. Roberts, representative-elect from the State of Utah, ought not to have or hold a seat in the House of Representatives, and the seat to which he was elected is hereby declared vacant."

(Signed) "ROBERT W. TAYLOR, CHAS. B. LANDIS, PHASE MORRIS, J. H. FREER, SAMUEL W. MIER, SAMUEL W. TAYLOR, ROBERT W. MIER, MINORITY REPORT."

The minority report is signed by Mr. Littlefield, Republican of Maine, and Mr. DeArmond, Democrat, of Missouri. It says in part: "The undersigned members of the special committee appointed to investigate the case of Brigham H. Roberts, for that reason, report upon the prima facie and final right of the committee as to the constitutional question involved very respectfully submit our views."

COURSE TO PURSUE.
"Assuming that Mr. Roberts has been, and is, now a polygamist unlawfully cohabiting with plural wives and the House of Representatives is for that reason, on the opinion that he ought not to be a member thereof, what course should it rightfully pursue under the Constitution the supreme law of the land, exclude him or expel him? If he is to be excluded, it must be because he is for such reason legally ineligible or disqualified. The purpose is to consider the question of constitutional right, not of power, as it is conceded that the House has the power to exclude with what reason, right or without the exercise of such a power, without constitutional warrant, would simply be brute force, a tyrannous exercise of power, unreviewable by any tribunal."

After citing the constitutional provision as to the qualifications of a representative in Congress, the report proceeds: "It is seriously contended that this House can of its own motion, by its independent action, exclude him for the purpose of House alone cannot make or unmake the law of the land. It is quite clear that the House by its independent action cannot, without the exercise of such a power, make the force of the law."

The report concludes as follows: PARTISAN MAJORITY.
"A small partisan majority might render itself desirous to arbitrarily exclude, by a majority vote, in order to more securely entrench itself in power. Hence its exercise is controlled by legal rules. In case of expulsion, when the requisite two-thirds majority is not obtained, the House is left with the power of no longer exists, as a two-thirds majority is sufficient for every purpose. Hence expulsion has been safely left in the discretion of the House and the safety of the members does not need the protection of legal rules."

"We recommend the following as a substitute for the resolution proposed by the committee: EXPULSION, NOT EXCLUSION.
"Resolved: That Brigham H. Roberts, having been duly elected a representative in the Fifty-sixth Congress, from the State of Utah, with the qualifications requisite for admission to the House, as such, is entitled as a constitutional right to take the oath of office prescribed for members-elect, his status as a polygamist, unlawfully cohabiting with plural wives, affording constitutional ground for expulsion, but not for exclusion from the House."

"And if the House shall hold with us and swear in Mr. Roberts, as a member of the House, as soon as recognition can be had, offer a resolution to expel him as a polygamist, unlawfully cohabiting with plural wives."

Mr. Taylor, chairman of the special committee to investigate the case of Roberts, gave notice that he would call the case up on Tuesday.

COPYRIGHT, 1899, BY PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION CO.
COURT OF MACHINERY AND TRANSPORTATION BUILDING.
(Pan-American Exposition of 1901, Buffalo, N. Y.)

ery and Transportation building itself form a hollow square, with this court in its center. It is 200 feet long and 100 feet wide, the east and west ends opening, respectively, to the great entrance from the Grand Canal of the court of the fountain, while the great exhibition rooms of the main side of the building, and the two exhibition rooms and great entrance court from the court of the fountains side of the building, lie on either side. Along each side of this court, and extending the entire length, are roof-covered arcades under which the visitor may find rest on the comfortable benches.

The pool itself is 75 feet long and 27 feet wide. It is placed in the center of the court. The bank is sodded and planted on all sides, forming a pleasing frame or border effect; the water is low so as to receive the reflection of the growth around the pool.

The fountain is an important feature, placed in the center of the pool, and giving life to the scene and freshness to the atmosphere. Throughout the court are pleasant walks and paths, bordered with low-growing shrubbery and plants, and at intervals at axis-points with the arcaded, rare plants are placed in great vases, making truly architectural landscape effect.

The entire scheme gives the effect of an admirable enclosure of a mission cloister, and is planted on one of the many little cases for the refreshment of the weary sight-seer.

HORTICULTURAL BUILDING.

The area of the Horticultural Building is 45,000 square feet. The Graphic Arts and Forestry buildings each cover 30,000 square feet, and are similar in design. In plan the Horticultural Building is square with central lantern rising to a height of 240 feet at the intersection of the four arms of a Greek cross, which includes in its angles four small domes. On the center of each facade is a deeply recessed arched entrance.

The northern part of the exhibitor ground is occupied by a square about 500 feet from east to west and 350 feet from north to south.

Outside, and at the north of the Plaza, the railway and trolley station, from which it is supposed the greater number of visitors will enter the exhibition ground.

The west side of the Plaza is bounded by a building, which is to serve as a large restaurant. The rail pass through the lower arches of this building, which are open, in order to reach that portion of the Exposition which corresponds with the Midway Plaisance at Chicago. The restaurant building itself is two stories high, and is about 350 feet long.

On the east side of the Plaza is a building closely resembling the restaurant, which serves principally as the entrance to the Stadium or athletic field, although portions are also used for exhibition purposes.

The Stadium or athletic field has been in all its details a subject of careful study. It resembles in a general way that erected at Athens a few years ago, although this one, of course, only a temporary structure. It will contain easily 25,000 spectators, and it is intended as a model of what it is hoped may be executed some day in permanent form. It has a quarter mile track running back and a sufficiently large space in the inside of this for any athletic games.
